Earth, Wind and Fire: Learning Chinese Language through Science Discovery

JULY 12 through JULY 23, 8 a.m.—12 p.m. (afternoon care available)

Students will be introduced to meteorology and weather, biology and ecology, and geography. Students will also interact with technology to compare Minnesota's ecology, habitat and climate with that of Yinghua Academy's sister school in Inner Mongolia, China. The science camp culminates with a field trip to the Science Museum of Minnesota. $250, sliding scale available.

About Yinghua Academy:

As the first Chinese immersion charter public school in the U.S. and the first Chinese immersion school in the Midwest, Yinghua Academy is a national leader in Mandarin Chinese immersion education. Yinghua Academy is a bilingual, tuition-free, public charter school with an international perspective.

About Yinghua Summer Camps:

The total immersion setting provides opportunities for students to learn key vocabulary and skills through activities in a fun, "hands-on," camp environment. Activities focus on the children's Chinese language practice process: interact with other students, express needs, and understand instructions. Students are divided by age group and prior language ability.

No prior foreign language experience is necessary! All students who will be in grade K-8 in the 2010-2011 school year are welcome to attend. For more information, contact Elizabeth Fei at (612) 788-9095 or email elizabeth@yinghuaacademy.org. The cost of each camp is $250, but partial and full scholarships are available for qualified students.
